

CITIZENS FIGHT PROPOSED STABLE AT PUMP PLANT

Commissioners Will Hear
Protestants Tomorrow
at 11 A. M.

Protesting vigorously against the proposed erection of a large stable for the Water Department in proximity to their homes, the North Washington Citizens' Association held one of the most eventful meetings in its history last night, in the parish hall of the Church of the Advent, corner of U and Seventh streets northwest.

The meeting, which was preparatory to the hearing which the District Commissioners have promised to the interested property owners tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, was attended by representatives of several other citizens' associations, who professed all the assistance they could muster to the North Washington Association in its fight against the objectionable structure which the Commissioners propose to erect on the lot adjoining the Bloomingdale pumping station, within a very few feet of the filtration plant.

For Fifty Horses.

While not much is known about the exact design and dimensions of the proposed stable, the information has been given out that it is planned to house at least fifty horses therein. Property owners in this section purchased their homes with the understanding and belief, it is said, that no such menace would be thrust upon them. Women property owners have taken the matter up also, and they will be well represented tomorrow.

Several bacteriologists, including Dr. Walter W. Allger, expressed themselves unreservedly to the effect that great harm was liable to result from stabling so many horses so near the water beds and reservoir. Dr. Allger was requested by the association to prepare a paper to be presented to the District Commissioners tomorrow morning.

Claim Neighborhood Was Killed.

John Imrie, chairman of the committee on sewers and water, said the District authorities had killed one promising neighborhood by converting the old pumping station at Seventeenth and U streets northwest, into a stable, and now they were compelled through protest to remove it, they proposed to kill another neighborhood.

A. S. Hiddle said he did not understand why the District wanted to house its horses so far away from the base of supplies and so near the longest possible hauling for freight and other supplies.

Major Calvin Farnsworth, who presided in the absence of President William P. Armstrong, said an eminent chemist had told him that the odors arising from the stable would be carried over the reservoir were liable to gather germs and spread disease.

DIPLOMATS ASK OVER ROOT'S TRIP

Although Secretary Root's visit to President Diaz of Mexico, early in the autumn or late in the summer, will be nominally of a personal nature and will not be made because of any political questions between the two countries, it was learned from a reliable quarter today that the visit of the American Secretary of State with the President of Mexico is expected, in Latin-American circles, to have an important bearing on the future of Central America.

The invitation, which was extended to the Secretary by Ambassador Creel verbally, is an outgrowth of the Secretary's trip last summer around South America, Diaz, when he learned more than a year ago that Secretary Root was going to visit Brazil and a number of other Latin-American countries, addressed, through Ambassador Casassus, a personal invitation to President Diaz for him to be his guest at Mexico City.

At first Secretary Root hoped to be able to include Mexico in his itinerary. Later that was found to be impracticable, and he was compelled to decline the invitation. The correspondence at that time resulted in the Secretary saying that he would be glad to make the visit at some time when he found it practicable. Mr. Root's return was his way clear to visit Mexico the latter part of August or early in September.

The announcement of the Secretary's forthcoming visit to President Diaz has created a flutter among the Central American diplomats, and it is understood that some of them have promptly called their home governments for instructions as to whether they shall invite Mr. Root to continue his journey to a visit to their countries.

ATLANTA RAILWAY INCREASES STOCK

NEW YORK, June 11.—With an increase in its capital stock of $10,000,000 authority to issue which has been given by the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad, the company will proceed to complete its plans for extending the system.

The new stock will also provide funds for the purchase of additional equipment. This will bring the total authorized issue up to $35,000,000 divided into $10,000,000 preferred and $25,000,000 common. The management expects to have the big terminal which is under construction at Atlanta, Ga., ready by October 1.

According to President Atkinson, the line will be completed into Atlanta about the same date. At the present time 42 miles are in operation. The new road now under construction approximates 223 miles and when completed will give the entire system a length of 643 miles. All of this will be laid with 60-pound rail.

Twenty-five new locomotives will be delivered to the company in the near future and it is understood that the company will soon be in the market for additional rolling stock.

EARTHQUAKE IN ECUADOR. ATTRIBUTED TO VOLCANO

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, June 11.—A violent earthquake of considerable duration caused a panic. It is attributed to the activity of Mt. Cotopaxi, which is throwing out great quantities of stone and flame.

TARIFF BARGAIN WITH GERMANY IS WANTED FOR ENGLAND

America, However, Will Arrange Agreement If It Is Desired.

It now appears certain that there will be no issue between the United States and Great Britain over the question of tariff concessions by this Government. The whole subject was thoroughly discussed between Ambassador Bryce and Secretary Root, just before the British ambassador's departure for the West, and now the State Department has formally announced to Great Britain its stand on the question.

Following receipt of advice from representatives of the State Department in England, to the effect that announcement was made yesterday in the house of commons of the policy of this Government concerning the new tariff agreement with Germany, as applied to Great Britain, a formal communication was issued to the British foreign office. This was in nature a correction of the statement made to the house of commons, that the British government had been assured that a correction of the tariff provisions made under the new commercial agreement with Germany would apply to all foreign countries, and that authority to certify to the value of exports would be allowed to all foreign, as well as to German, chamber of commerce.

In fact, the British government has been informed by the State Department that the administrative provisions of the German commercial agreement are intended to apply to all countries in principle, but that in the case of Great Britain, certificates of invoices issued by the chambers of commerce refer especially to Germany. The United States Government is prepared to make them applicable to Great Britain, so far as conditions in the country allow, if Great Britain so desires it.

CONFUCIUS' DESCENDANT! URGES REFORM IDEAS

PEKING, June 11.—The stronghold of Chinese conservatism has received a shock. "The Holy Duke Yen," popularly called "The Duke Confucius," who is the direct descendant of Confucius in the seventy-sixth generation, has become a Liberal.

The latest Confucius has created a stir by coming here to oppose the plans of the government for a memorial college at the birthplace in Shantung province of his illustrious ancestor. The "Holy Duke" thanked their majesties for the honor done his ancestor, but said that the college ought to teach the modern foreign learning.

LAW IS LIKE KIMONO, CHICAGO JUDGE SAYS

CHICAGO, June 11.—"Why is the law, as exemplified in some noted criminal trials, like a kimono? Because it covers everything and touches nothing." That original conundrum was part of Judge Jesse Holdom's address on "The Law" last night at the eleventh banquet of the Chicago Business Law School, held at the Auditorium Hotel. Referring to the uniform negotiable instrument law recently passed by the Illinois Legislature, Judge Holdom said: "This law is of material importance to commerce, for at the present time the controlling rules and checks and foreign trading bills and drafts is by reason of like legislation, uniform in many of the States."

ELKS TO LAY STONE FOR THEIR NEW HOME LATE THIS AFTERNOON

and professional men of Washington, applied for a charter, which was granted in December, and the Elks began their steady growth.

The lodge's first meeting place was in McMenamin's Hall, Four-and-a-half and E streets northwest, later being changed to Moore's Hall, on Ninth street. In 1894 the lodge moved to its present location at 12th and E streets, the building purchased partly through the lodge's surplus fund and partly through security offered personally by a number of the members.

Ground Broken Last November.

The building has been enlarged and remodeled from time to time, until on its twenty-fifth anniversary the new home was planned to accommodate the fast-growing membership. Ground was broken in November, 1906, and work will begin in earnest with the laying of the cornerstone today.

The committee on arrangements, which will have charge of the cornerstone laying, is composed of: Maj. Richard A. O'Brien, chairman; Michael G. McCormick; Robert M. McWade; Charles H. Uermehle; R. T. Moran; Frank B. Clarkson; Edward J. Murphy; Edward H. Neumeyer, Jr.; John C. Maxwell.

AN OLD EDITOR FOUND $2000 WORTH OF FOOD

"The editor of a paper out in Oklahoma said: 'Yes, it is true when I got hold of Grape-Nuts food, it was worth more than a $2000 order bill to me, for it made me a well man. I have gained twenty-five pounds in weight, my brain strength has returned tenfold, my brain power has been given back to me, and that is an absolute essential, for I am an editor and have been for thirty-five years.'"

"My pen shall always be ready to speak a good word for this powerful nutritive food. I find of course often read the advertisements regarding Grape-Nuts, but never thought to apply the food to my own use, until, in my extremity and sickness the thought came to me that it might fit my case. The statements in regard to the food are absolutely correct, as I have proven in my own case. One very fortunate thing about the food is that while it is the most scientifically made and highly nourishing, concentrated food I have ever known, it has so delicious a taste that it wins and holds friends. BIG CELEBRATION AT ST. BARNABAS'

Church Is 200 Years Old and Anniversary Is Observed.

The two hundredth anniversary of St. Barnabas' Church, Prince George's county, Md., was celebrated at 10 o'clock this morning in the presence of a number of Episcopal clergymen from Washington, Baltimore, Annapolis, and other cities. Special services were held and the music was furnished by the choir of St. Andrew's Church, Washington.

Considerable interest attached to the celebration of this anniversary and plans for the ceremonies have been under way several weeks. The Right Rev. Henry V. Satterlee, bishop of Washington, who to have delivered the sermon, but present business called him away from Washington, and he was unable to attend.

A large number of Episcopal clergymen went from Washington. Accompanying them on the 7:30 o'clock train this morning was the choir of St. Andrew's Church, Fourteenth and Corcoran streets, and many lay visitors who were anxious to participate in the anniversary services.

In the old records now in the Diocesan Library at Baltimore, where they have been kept for some time, it is recorded that the parish of St. Paul's Church, Aquasco, was too large for one man. The organization and division giving the proper boundaries took place under a special act of the Assembly in 1766. It is a fact that the charter then granted by the governor and council was the first ever given in Maryland for such an object.

The brick church that stands today is the third built on the same spot. The first was of wood, which was burned; the second, in 1807, of brick, some of which came from England. That became too small and the present one was built a few years later.

Many of Maryland's greatest men and women worshipped in this old church and are buried in its cemetery, and men of renown have ministered as rector.

GIVES UP WOMAN, RETURNS TO WIFE

P. R. R. Solicitor's Son,
G. G. Massey,
Forgiven.

DOVER, Del., June 11.—George Gordon Massey, son of George V. Massey, the general solicitor of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, has returned here from the arms of Mrs. Evelyn Booker Raue, the wife of a Philadelphia physician, with whom he eloped to Wyoming in the early part of May. It is believed here that Mrs. Massey has kept her word and forgiven him.

Massey went immediately to his home from the railroad station. He was stopped on the way by newspaper men, but declined to say anything for himself, or for the woman who sacrificed name, home, and all she had on the altar of her love for him.

Massey reached here at noon. He remained indoors for three hours after his arrival, and then went to the home of his wife's mother, Mrs. Clarke.

His two children, Valentine and Anna, were playing in the yard near the Clarke place as he passed, but they did not see him.

Massey was admitted to his mother-in-law's home the instant he rang the bell. He remained there fully two hours, and when he came out Mrs. Massey and the two children were with him, and a reunion had evidently taken place. They went straight to their home in Main street.

From what could be learned here, Mrs. Raue is still on the ranch near Cody, Wyo., where Massey took her when they fled together from Philadelphia.

Companions of Massey here say that Mrs. Raue undoubtedly loved him. They point to the devotion she showed only a week ago, when she rode alone over a wild Wyoming prairie in a snowstorm to rescue him from a den in Cody, where he and a bad man of the section were engaged in painting things red.
